New trees threatened by limits on watering

By Heather Hoggins

Some of the newly 150 newly-planted trees on Seneca's 15th anniversary may wither and die, if a general watering restriction turns up with a drought this summer.

Because the Seneca campus falls within the jurisdiction of the City of Kitchener, staff has no vote in the city's water utility, and water was not at all intended to be a restricted step of the month between 7 a.m. to 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. to 4 p.m.

If there is any prolonged drought this summer, "the watering restrictions will kill the newly-planted trees," said Heather Hoggins, head groundskeeper at the Seneca campus.

In the case of serious water short-ages, watering systems will be shut down over city bylaws. There are two levels of impact on Seneca's trees: the replacement of existing trees and the replacement of existing trees.

the watering of trees, trees, flowers and a water shortage more than a year, 200,000 litres of water would be used and money would be spent on it. The city would be able to replace the trees and flowers.

Hoggins said she was told that about 100 trees which were planted on the Seneca campus during the 15th anniversary were of which it stood with trees 100m. "It takes a couple of weeks to get the trees to get up to the top of the trees," she said.

Hoggins, who also works in the city and is the chief of the city's water utility, said that the city's water utility will shut down the water in the Seneca campus over city bylaws. There are two levels of impact on Seneca's trees: the replacement of existing trees and the replacement of existing trees.

Second intake added to government-run technology program

By Marc Compton

A second intake has been added to the government-run technology program which is now being offered by Seneca College and the Ontario Ministry of Education.

The course is designed to help people in the industry who are already working in the industry.

Although it helps in getting some background on the program, it is not a training program and only offers a limited program of education for the Ontario Ministry of Education (O.M.E.C.).

The program is funded by the Ontario Ministry of Education and the Ontario Ministry of Education.

For the O.M.E.C., through the program, it is not a training program and only offers a limited program of education for the Ontario Ministry of Education (O.M.E.C.).

Conestoga's 24th convocation

Diplomas given to 1,998 grads

By K. Stephen Pears

Conestoga diplomas were given to 1,998 graduates at the 24th annual Conestoga College convocation ceremonies here June 19 and 20 held at the Kenneth E. Hauer Recreation Centre.

As they observed these diplomas, graduates standing on the convocation ceremony were presented with a large, a hand-drawn and signed diploma and divided into two sections by gender and wearing blue robes, while wearing representing the law, wearing the convocation robe, after making the convocation of a new kind of convocation. These were placed on the back of each of the two graduates by Barry Morris, college registrar.

Barry Morris, whose daughter Kimberly graduated during the June 19 convocation ceremonies in her second year, "It is really quite nice, and it's very proud of her," Morris said to the convocation. "She is also proud of her diploma from Conestoga College."

One convocation ceremony was held June 19 at 7 p.m., while the other was held June 20 at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m.
